UN teams up with private sector to fight AIDS

United Nations, July 26. (UNI): The UN has underscored the need for partnership with the private sector to meet goals of universal primary education by 2015, poverty reduction and prevention of HIV/AIDS.

The initiative coincides with an AIDS convention in New Delhi organised by the Parliamentary Forum on HIV/AIDS. "We cannot reach these goals without the support from private sector," UN General Secretary Kofi Annan said yesterday while introducing the co-chairmen of the Commission on the Private Sector and Development - ex-Mexican president Ernesto Zedillo and former finance minister Paul Martin of Canada - at the U N headquarters.

"Never before, in any nation of the world, has there been such a large and committed gathering of leaders from every level of decision-making, dedicated to the common cause of fighting AIDS," a top UN official commented on the ongoing AIDS convention.
