DISCOURS PROVIDES APPETIZER

Historical Overview of Conflict Sensitivity and Gender Responsive Land Dialogue

Kathmandu: An appetizer of the DISCOURS Conflict Sensitivity and Gender Responsive Land Dialogue offered in Kathmandu, participants noted the positive impact of the event. One participant noted how “the appetizer of DISCOURS was an experience that helped us to understand the need for better land solutions by bringing together different stakeholders, which was organized in an organized manner. Another participant noted: “It was nice and refreshing to see that the dialogue has started with an appetizer. We were able to understand the importance of conflict awareness and how it can be applied to our work in reducing land-related issues.” The event provided a platform for sharing experiences and lessons learned from previous land dialogues in the region. The participants from four districts – Banke, Bardiya, Dang, and Surkhet – attended the workshop and shared their experiences. The event focused on exploring innovative strategies to address land issues.

Tools to deal with land issues

In the framework of “Conflict Sensitivity and Gender Responsive Land Dialogue” in Kathmandu, Nepal, participants discussed the importance of conflict awareness and resolution in addressing land issues. Moreover, the workshop highlighted the role of women in accessing land and the importance of conflict awareness for women to interact efficiently with men in accessing land. It was organized by SCDP-Bharatpur and was attended by 30 participants, including women, community leaders, and civil society leaders. The workshop included interactive discussions on land governance for social cohesion and assisted them in exploring the role of women in settling land disputes.

Seventeen participants, including five women, actively participated and pledged to promote joint land ownership.

Strengthening capacity in the region

Barhanpur: A two-day workshop organized by the SCDP in Barhanpur on “Conflict Sensitive and Gender Responsive Land Dialogue” provided an opportunity to the participants to discuss conflict awareness and resolve issues related to land governance and management in their respective regions.

The participants from four districts – Bara, Parsa, Rautahat, and Danusha – attended the workshop and shared their experiences. The event was a platform for participants to learn about best practices in conflict resolution and to develop strategies to address land issues in their respective regions. The workshop was organized by the SCDP in collaboration with the Ministry of Land Reform, the Ministry of Women and Child Development, and the Ministry of Social Welfare.

The women participants, particularly from the Madhes region, were very vocal about their experiences and highlighted the importance of conflict awareness in addressing land issues.

Land dialogues receive encouraging responses

Kathmandu: The land dialogue on issues facilitated by the SCDP was well-received and resulted in building trust among key actors regarding land issues. The dialogue was successful in bringing together different stakeholders, including women, community leaders, and civil society leaders, to discuss land issues and share their experiences.

The participants noted that the dialogue was an important step in addressing land issues in their respective regions. The event was well-attended by participants, including women, community leaders, and civil society leaders. The event was organized by the SCDP in collaboration with the Ministry of Land Reform, the Ministry of Women and Child Development, and the Ministry of Social Welfare.

The women participants, particularly from the Madhes region, were very vocal about their experiences and highlighted the importance of conflict awareness in addressing land issues.
September 2016, Kathmandu

Land issues have been widely recognized as one of the key issues of the decade long conflict in Nepal. The Comprehensive Peace Agreement (2006) also emphasized the need for local-level sustainable peacebuilding. The newly promulgated Constitution of Nepal guarantees political, civil, economic, social and cultural rights for women. It prohibits gender-based violence and provides safeguards against gender inequality, including laws that discriminate against women, and gender-based violence and abuse. Gender inequality is an aspect of people's lives, and the issues around women's land rights are an important aspect of people's lives and their health.

As for the process of developing the understandings, the workshop first presented the view of all the stakeholders about the social, political, and economic dimensions. It was coordinated by the Dalit NGO Federation with the objective of developing a shared understanding of the key issues of the key land issues which helped to develop the shared understanding.

As for the process of developing the understandings, the workshop first presented the view of all the stakeholders about the social, political, and economic dimensions. It was coordinated by the Dalit NGO Federation with the objective of developing a shared understanding of the key issues of the key land issues which helped to develop the shared understanding.

The shared understanding developed by the political parties over key issues pertaining to land rights from gender perspective. It includes women's access to land, sustainable land use, women's role in agricultural and rural land use, and gender-based violence. The gender-based violence is an aspect of people's lives, and the issues around women's land rights are an important aspect of people's lives and their health.

As for the process of developing the understandings, the workshop first presented the view of all the stakeholders about the social, political, and economic dimensions. It was coordinated by the Dalit NGO Federation with the objective of developing a shared understanding of the key issues of the key land issues which helped to develop the shared understanding.

The shared understanding developed by the political parties over key issues pertaining to land rights from gender perspective. It includes women's access to land, sustainable land use, women's role in agricultural and rural land use, and gender-based violence. The gender-based violence is an aspect of people's lives, and the issues around women's land rights are an important aspect of people's lives and their health.

As for the process of developing the understandings, the workshop first presented the view of all the stakeholders about the social, political, and economic dimensions. It was coordinated by the Dalit NGO Federation with the objective of developing a shared understanding of the key issues of the key land issues which helped to develop the shared understanding.

The shared understanding developed by the political parties over key issues pertaining to land rights from gender perspective. It includes women's access to land, sustainable land use, women's role in agricultural and rural land use, and gender-based violence. The gender-based violence is an aspect of people's lives, and the issues around women's land rights are an important aspect of people's lives and their health.

As for the process of developing the understandings, the workshop first presented the view of all the stakeholders about the social, political, and economic dimensions. It was coordinated by the Dalit NGO Federation with the objective of developing a shared understanding of the key issues of the key land issues which helped to develop the shared understanding.

The shared understanding developed by the political parties over key issues pertaining to land rights from gender perspective. It includes women's access to land, sustainable land use, women's role in agricultural and rural land use, and gender-based violence. The gender-based violence is an aspect of people's lives, and the issues around women's land rights are an important aspect of people's lives and their health.

As for the process of developing the understandings, the workshop first presented the view of all the stakeholders about the social, political, and economic dimensions. It was coordinated by the Dalit NGO Federation with the objective of developing a shared understanding of the key issues of the key land issues which helped to develop the shared understanding.

The shared understanding developed by the political parties over key issues pertaining to land rights from gender perspective. It includes women's access to land, sustainable land use, women's role in agricultural and rural land use, and gender-based violence. The gender-based violence is an aspect of people's lives, and the issues around women's land rights are an important aspect of people's lives and their health.

As for the process of developing the understandings, the workshop first presented the view of all the stakeholders about the social, political, and economic dimensions. It was coordinated by the Dalit NGO Federation with the objective of developing a shared understanding of the key issues of the key land issues which helped to develop the shared understanding.

The shared understanding developed by the political parties over key issues pertaining to land rights from gender perspective. It includes women's access to land, sustainable land use, women's role in agricultural and rural land use, and gender-based violence. The gender-based violence is an aspect of people's lives, and the issues around women's land rights are an important aspect of people's lives and their health.

As for the process of developing the understandings, the workshop first presented the view of all the stakeholders about the social, political, and economic dimensions. It was coordinated by the Dalit NGO Federation with the objective of developing a shared understanding of the key issues of the key land issues which helped to develop the shared understanding.

The shared understanding developed by the political parties over key issues pertaining to land rights from gender perspective. It includes women's access to land, sustainable land use, women's role in agricultural and rural land use, and gender-based violence. The gender-based violence is an aspect of people's lives, and the issues around women's land rights are an important aspect of people's lives and their health.