

UNDP IN IRAQ

TOWARDS RECONCILIATION, REFORM AND STABILITY

Empowered lives.
Resilient nations.

The humanitarian, security and development crisis in Iraq is among the most acute in the region. Partners estimate that up to 4.2 million internally displaced people may need assistance in 2017, and the country is also now hosting 233,000 refugees from Syria. These factors have placed additional stress on host communities already beset with severe socio-economic difficulties, destroyed livelihoods, and led to increased poverty and rising tensions.

In this context, UNDP has two major programmes to build the resilience of the most affected communities in Iraq. In the areas liberated from the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL) and under the leadership of the office of the Prime Minister, UNDP works with local Governments to restore services, foster recovery, and reboot livelihoods. UNDP's Funding Facility for Stabilization (FFS) is now active in 22 localities in Iraq. More than 100 projects are underway in eastern Mosul, and Stabilization activities will begin in western section of the city as soon as access is possible. In regions heavily impacted by the current humanitarian and development crisis, UNDP has adapted its interventions to promote resilience with enhanced public service provision, job opportunities and social cohesion through the Iraq Crisis Response and Resilience Programme (ICRRP).

UNDP's current Country Programme also includes several other initiatives to support post-ISIL Iraq, focused on institutional capacities to manage development through support to public institutional reform and the effective devolution of administrative and fiscal powers, the Prime Minister's anti-corruption efforts, local level reconciliation and disaster preparedness.
