

UNDP IN JORDAN

BOOSTING RESILIENCE IN A TIME OF STRAIN

Empowered lives.
Resilient nations.

UNDP has made supporting the national efforts of the Government of Jordan to manage the refugee crisis a priority since the onset of the crisis in early 2011, which has seen nearly 650,000 refugees pour into the country, mostly living outside of camps and spread across all of Jordan including in poorer Governorates and communities.

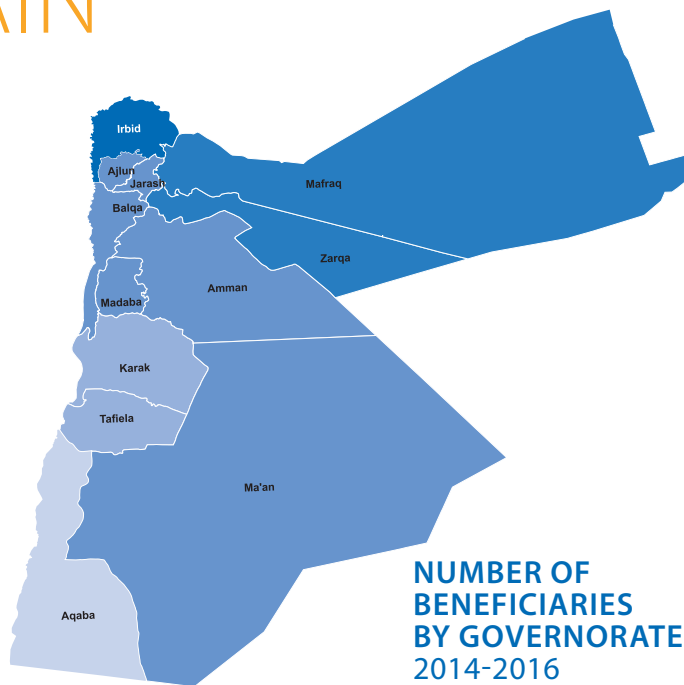

UNDP has provided both policy and operational support. At the policy level UNDP has supported the Government in building its capacity in aid coordination resulting in the creation and monitoring of the Jordan National Response Plan (JRP) 2015-2016 and the 2016-2018 and 2017-2019 Response Plans. The great majority of UNDP's support comes at the operational level by assisting Governorates and municipalities to expand access to currently over-stretched social services, and to increase livelihood opportunities for vulnerable communities.

UNDP also provides support for enhancing relations between local and refugee populations and boosting access to justice in order to foster social cohesion. Thus far the work of UNDP Jordan in response to the Syria crisis has supported 11 of Jordan's 12 Governorates, and 95 municipalities, reaching approximately 3 million people directly, mostly local but also including some 400,000 refugees from Syria. This support for resilience is tightly integrated into UNDP's overall work in the country, which since 2013 has focused on institutional reform, social protection and services, youth empowerment and environmental sustainability.

In close partnership with the Government, UNDP is committed over the foreseeable future to assist Jordan and its host communities to find more sustainable solutions that strengthen the resilience of institutions, host communities and refugees. At present UNDP is seeking US $64.3 million to support the Government of Jordan on key areas of resilience within the Jordan Response Plan 2017.
