GENDER EQUALITY TALKS

As autumn unfolds, we're presented with important dates that call for reflection on our shared human rights journey. While we've made progress towards gender equality, challenges persist, especially in the face of emerging global crises.

This year's 16 Days of Activism is a unique opportunity to advance the gender equality agenda, given the subtle yet significant backlashes.

UNDP is excited to present GENDER EQUALITY TALKS, a series of events focusing on key issues.

On 24th November in Podgorica

This year's 16 Days of Activism is a unique opportunity to advance the gender equality agenda, given the subtle yet significant backlashes.

UNDP is excited to present GENDER EQUALITY TALKS, a series of events focusing on key issues.

On December 5th at 6:00 PM, at the Cultural Center Kolašin Theatre Play "Political History of Women in Montenegro"

The play is based on historiographical material and provides an authentic overview of the development of women's rights in Montenegro. The director is Marija Perović, with performances by Kristina Obradović, Jelena Đukić, and Milica Šćepanović. The script is authored by Nataša Nelević and Kaća Đuričković.

The play premiered in 2016, marking the 70th anniversary of women gaining the right to vote, and received exceptional reactions at the time.

An additional value of the performance lies in its educational character, and we warmly recommend it to everyone

The event will feature special addresses by:

Ute Friessner, Deputy Ambassador of Austria in Montenegro

Branislav Jeknić, Director of the Cultural Center Kolašin

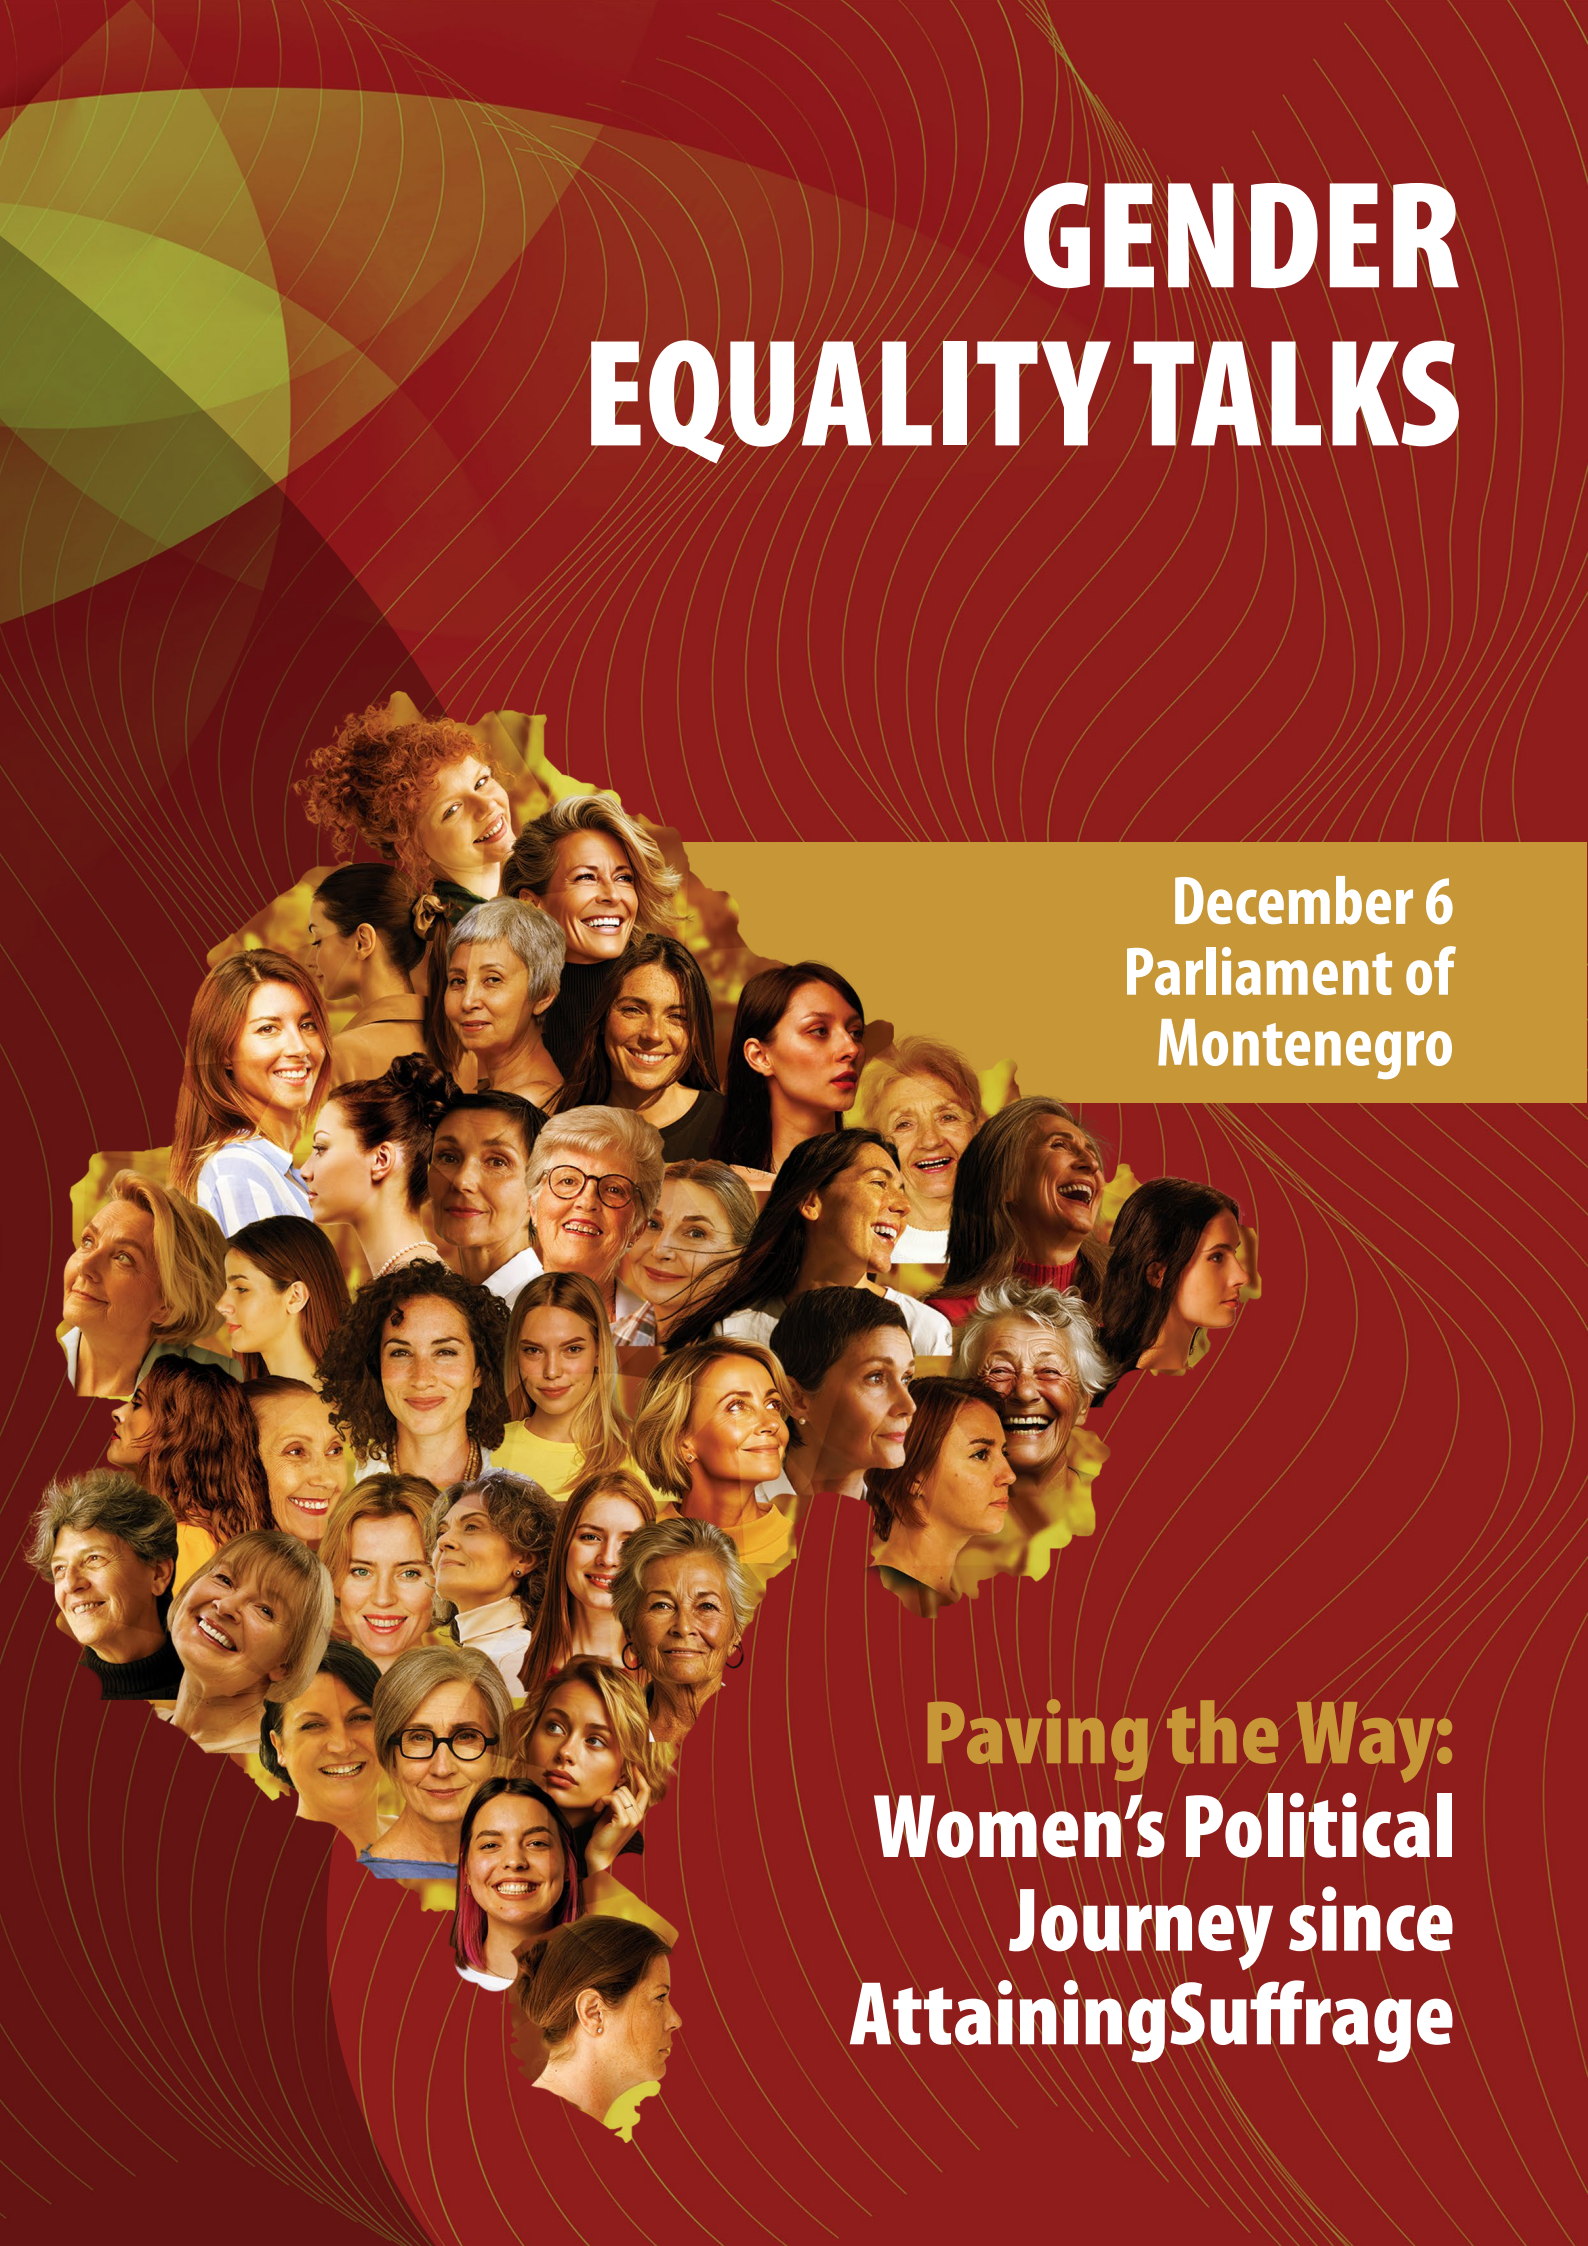

Kaća Đuričković, Leader of the UNDP Gender Equality Team.
