The UNDP in Ukraine evaluation plan encompasses a range of evaluations on different levels, to ensure strategic coverage of outcome and thematic areas, and provide substantive input for learning, decision-making and identification of emerging areas of interventions.

There are 9 project evaluations planned, which include GEF terminal evaluations, and evaluations established in the financing agreements with donors. The evaluation of mine action programme is planned to provide comprehensive inputs into the management of this multi-donor, multi-year intervention, aimed at transformational change and high-level impact results.

The evaluation of Transformational recovery for human security in Ukraine project will provide recommendations and lessons learned from the implementation of the muti-faceted programme with strong subnational component, which entails interventions cutting across all three outcomes of the Country Programme Document (e.g. economic recovery and restoration of infrastructure; local governance and decentralization reform; access to justice and safeguarding human rights, social cohesion). The findings of this evaluation will inform future programming on both national and sub-national level, and provide important lessons learned for the implementation of portfolio approach.

The plan provides for 2 mid-term outcome evaluations, to identify findings and recommendations in the course of the country programme implementation, one evaluation of the portfolio of projects focused on economic revitalization and private sector support and one thematic evaluation, covering UNDP's area-based interventions.
