Confirming Derivation of Country Programming Instruments from the UN Sustainable Development
Cooperation Framework

No 007

Date: 20 May 2025

Dear Ms. Živković,

Re: Confirmation that UNDP country programming instrument for Turkmenistan is derived from the Country Cooperation Framework.

Following careful review, I am pleased to confirm that the country programming instrument – 'Country Programme Document (CPD) for Turkmenistan (2026-2030)' of UNDP has been derived from the priorities and the results framework of the UN Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework for Turkmenistan, in accordance with the UNSDG Management and Accountability Framework.

This country programming instrument will contribute to the UNCT's collective effort to achieving the following:

1. Outcome 1. By 2030, the people of Turkmenistan have access to accountable governance system through improved public administration and strengthened fiscal capacity, based on commitments to human rights, rule of law and gender equality to ensure achievement of the SDGs
2. Outcome 2. By 2030, Turkmenistan will have improved conditions and opportunities for inclusive and sustainable economic diversification and growth
3. Outcome 3. By 2030, Turkmenistan will strengthen natural resource management systems, systematically fulfil its climate change commitments, and the population will become more resilient to climate change and disasters
4. Outcome 4. By 2030, all people of Turkmenistan, including vulnerable groups, benefit equitably from quality and inclusive health, education and social protection systems and transformative social norms

I am confident that UNDP will continue playing a critical role in achieving ambitious targets set by UNSDCF 2026-2030 for Public Administration, Governance, Digitalization and Social Protection, Climate and Environment and Sustainable Economic Growth. In addition, I look forward to UNDP's significant contributions to all cross-cutting approaches and joint activities with other agencies. This collaborative effort will assist the Government of Turkmenistan in laying the foundation for people-centered sustainable development over the next five years.

I appreciate the engagement of UNDP Turkmenistan in the Cooperation Framework design process.

We now look forward to successful coordinated implementation of this country programming instrument and the Cooperation Framework to help achieve the SDGs in line with the national development priorities.

Yours sincerely,
