DEVELOPMENT CHALLENGES

In Africa, the absence of durable peace, security and stability has remained a major source of concern to policy makers within and outside the continent.

The widespread nature of the state of insecurity in Africa continues to threaten and undermine efforts aimed at promoting peace and development.

The East Africa region is characterized by violent conflicts with social, economic and political tensions, weak governance and underdevelopment.

The Sustainable Development Goals, include peace as a central and integrated part. Out of all the 17 SDGs, SDG 16 is most linked to sustaining peace. In peace building processes, it is crucial to develop effective, accountable and inclusive institutions to deliver public services.
