1. Background and problem statement

The Government of Rwanda has made good progress towards the implementation of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), including their domestication and integration in the National Strategy for Transformation (NST1). In fact, the three SDGs dimensions, namely, economic, social and environmental are comprehensively integrated in the NST1 (2017-2024) pillars: “Economic Transformation, Social Transformation and Transformational Governance” as well as Vision 2050 and related subnational and sectoral strategies. However, there is still more to be done particularly in this Decade of Action, to achieve the Global Goals by 2030 and recover from the human and socio-economic crisis caused by the Covid-19 pandemic, which has severely imperilled the progress towards the SDGs. Rwanda, like all other countries in the world has been gravely affected by the Covid-19 crisis, and with its first case recorded in March 2020, the global pandemic has seriously impacted the political, social and economic life in the country.

The integration of the SDGs into the national development framework was guided by Government of Rwanda’s domestication roadmap, which was approved in December 2015. Rwanda has committed to the enhanced delivery and realization of the Sustainable Development Goals and has been actively involved in their formulation, including being selected to pilot one of the Goals, on “Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions”.

In 2019, Rwanda volunteered to conduct and present for the first time its Voluntary National Review (VNR) report on SDG implementation, in line with the country’s global commitment to carry out regular, voluntary and inclusive reviews to report on the progress achieved in implementing the Agenda 2030. The VNR report provides an in-depth analysis of 7 SDGs, including SDG 16. However, there is a need to continuously monitor the progress towards the SDGs and reflect on the efforts still needed to be made. Rwanda also needs to consider the VNR recommendations within the context of other initiatives, particularly when the country is engaged in Universal Periodic Review (UPR) processes.

In 2021, the country has undergone its most recent and third UPR review, which culminated in the adoption of 160 new recommendations to be implemented between now and the next review in 2025. Following the 2019 VNR review and the adoption of the new UPR recommendations; which have been accepted by Rwanda, and based on the national Strategy for Reconciliation, Law and Order Sector in Rwanda, multiple gaps have been identified in data availability for some indicators under SDG 16.

As such, OHCHR and UNDP propose the following activities to assist the country to better assess the progress towards SDGs, review the synergies between the UPR and VNR processes and also support the implementation of SDGs for the remaining decade for action:

- Conduct in-depth review of the 2019 VNR and 2020 UPR recommendations and identify areas of synergies, complementarities and gaps that need to be considered for the next decade of action, through the midterm review of the national development plan, the next UN Sustainable Development Framework (UNSDF) and other national programs.
- Develop capacities of members of the National Treaty Body Task Force and the UN Human Rights Task Force on Human Rights-Based Approach in development processes, building upon the VNR and UPR outcomes.
- Conduct an assessment of the status of SDG 16 domestication in Rwanda to better inform national planning and development processes.

The Rwanda Governance Board (RGB) is a national institution responsible for promoting and monitoring good governance in political, public, corporate, and civic domains in Rwanda. Through research and assessment, advisory services, policy dialogues, networking and civil society promotion, RGB seeks to help achieve institutional accountability, sustainable development and prosperity in Rwanda.
