QUARTER HIGHLIGHTS

1. After the conclusion of the '2016 electoral process' and the indirect election of a new President for Somalia in February 2017, the United Nations deployed in March and April an electoral Needs Assessment Mission (NAM) to renew and redefine the parameters of UN electoral support to Somalia in preparation of universal 'one person, one vote' elections. The conclusion of the NAM will inform the scope of the revised UNDP/UNSOM Joint Programme of Electoral Support to the country.
2. In line with the commitments made by the Federal Government of Somalia (FGS) during the high-level international Conference in London in May 2017 to universal 'one person, one vote' elections in 2021, and with the assistance of the UN Electoral Support Joint Programme, the National Independent Electoral Commission (NIEC) refined and presented in May and June its five-year Strategic Plan (2017-2021) to national and international partners.
3. Further in line with the commitments made by the FGS during the London Conference to develop an Electoral Law by the end of 2018, the Ministry of Interior, Federal Affairs and

SOMALIA UN MPTF

Reconciliation (MOIFAR) convened, with the support of the Joint Programme, in May a public information session and in June a round-table with national key stakeholders on the drafting process of the Electoral Law.

4. On 23 May 2017, the NIEC inaugurated the Office of the Registrar of Political Parties. In line with the 2016 political parties' law, the mandate of the Office is to conduct the process of registration of political parties in due course. The Joint Programme provides advisory supports to the NIEC in this respect.

SITUATION UPDATE

After the closure of the indirect clan-based electoral process in 2016 / early 2017, the high-level International Conference on Somalia in May in London characterises the transition of the country's electoral context through the commitment by the Federal Government towards universal 'one person, one vote' elections in 2021 and the development of an Electoral Law by the end of 2018.

This commitment was welcomed in the United Nations Security Council Resolution (2358) on 14 June 2017, where the Security Council underscored the importance of UNSOM to support the FGS with the preparation of "inclusive, credible and transparent elections by 2021", and to take the lead in coordinating international electoral support to Somalia.

In anticipation of the formulation of a revised Project Document, in light of the above and informed by the conclusion of the UN electoral Needs Assessment Mission, the Joint Programme for Electoral Support focused this quarter on the continued capacity development of the NIEC and assistance to MOIFAR to draft an inclusive and consulted Electoral Law in accordance with international standards and the national context.

During a Board meeting on 20 June 2017, the UN Integrated Electoral Support Group (IESG) provided donor partners a draft outline of the revised scope of the Joint Programme; with key focus on the NIEC and MOIFAR supporting the country's preparation for universal elections by 2021. IESG and UNDP will work in the third quarter with partners and stakeholders on the revised scope of the Joint Programme. In the meantime, the Board approved the no-cost extension of the current Joint Programme until 30 September 2017.

NARRATIVE

Output 1: The institutional capacity of the NIEC is developed to fulfil its mandate to prepare for and conduct electoral operations.

A major objective of the Joint Programme for Electoral Support is to develop long-term electoral and institutional capacity of Somalia's National Independent Electoral Commission (NIEC). The NIEC was established in July 2015 as the electoral management body to prepare the country's first universal "one-person one-vote" elections since 1969. Its mandate is articulated in the Provisional Constitution of the Federal Republic and the 2015 NIEC Law. The NIEC's role to prepare for universal elections in the Communique of Somalia's National Leadership Forum in April 2017: "The NLF recognizes the need to hold universal elections in 2020/1 as one of the pillars of the establishment of democracy in the country. The NLF calls for the International Community to support the National Independent Electoral Commission."

NIEC Strategic Plan (2017-2021)

During the second quarter of 2017, the NIEC refined its five-year Strategic Plan that will serve as the institution's roadmap to prepare for universal elections in Somalia: with key focus on electoral legislation and procedures, institutional capacity, informed electorate, voter register, a level playing field for candidates, parties, media and observers, the conduct of credible, free and fair elections, and a post-election evaluation before initiating the next cycle. The NIEC Strategic Plan has been developed after extensive work by the Commission and Secretariat staff, assisted by other regional electoral experts, and supported by the UNDP/UNSOM Joint Programme for Electoral Support and by USAID bilaterally.

On 20 May, supported by the UNDP/UNSOM Joint Programme for Electoral Support, the NIEC convened a consultative meeting with political associations on its Plan. As part of its plan to reach out to stakeholders, the NIEC is planning a series of consultative engagements with national and subnational partners and stakeholders as well as international partners. On 8 and 9 June, the NIEC shared its Strategic Plan with international donor partners, electoral implementation actors and international NGOs, soliciting feedback from key stakeholders on coordination and assistance.

Launch of the Office of the Political Party Registrar

On 23 May, the NIEC launched its Political Party Registration Office in Mogadishu. NIEC has the mandate to oversee the process of registration of Political Parties in the country. In line with the 2016 political parties' law, the mandate of the

SOMALIA UN MPTF

Office is to conduct the process of registration of political parties in due course. A significant group of political associations attended the launch and were presented the manual and guidance note for political parties to register. The political party registration process is done in two phases: temporary registration and official registration.

NIEC stakeholder engagements with sub-national actors

Supported by the Joint Programme for Electoral Support, the National Independent Electoral Commission (NIEC) sent a delegation to Puntland from 20 April until 1 May to strengthen its domestic stakeholder relations. The NIEC delegation engaged with the State President of Puntland, the Vice-President, prominent leaders and civil society networks to clarify its mandate. The NIEC delegation took the opportunity to engage with the Transitional Puntland Electoral Commission (TPEC) to discuss coordination and support between NIEC and TPEC, in particular related to preparation of 'one person, one vote' elections and how to address the questions of sub-national elections.

Institutional capacity development

Strengthening its institutional capacity development, the NIEC is developing with the help of the Joint Programme the capacity of its Secretariat. The Joint Programme is assisting the NIEC with streamlining its internal operational procedures. Besides daily assistance, a training session was provided in May for NIEC (and MOIFAR) support staff on procurement and agreements management. Furthermore, the Joint Programme facilitates the deployment of national advisors embedded in the NIEC to provide direct technical support to the Commissioners. Different electoral and operational trainings, workshops and study-tours are scheduled to strengthen the Commissioners and staff's capacity. Furthermore, the Joint Programme has been providing ongoing logistics and operational support to the NIEC, including planning for future NIEC permanent office.

Civil and Voter Registration feasibility study

The Joint Programme for Electoral Support explores concepts and strategies to support national institutions and processes to develop the foundations for universal 'one person one vote' elections, such as institutional capacity building, political parties' regulation, electoral legislative framework, and the issue of electoral security. Discussions with other international partners have been taken place for a joint feasibility study on the concept of a national ID program that includes voter registration.

In the second quarter of the year, UNDP, the World Bank, IOM and Terra Incognita elaborated on the draft report of the joint feasibility study on options for national identification systems. This assessment and feasibility study was conducted at the request of the Federal Government of Somalia (FGS) in order to explore options for national identification system(s) to underpin 'One Person, One Identity' for transparent voter lists for the new electoral voter cycle and for sustainable development applications. The launch of the final report is moved to the next quarter.

Output 2: MoIFAR supported in its electoral related democratization role

The Ministry of Interior and Federal Affairs and Reconciliation (MOIFAR) plays a central role in supporting Somalia's democratic transition, with a lead role in developing the legal framework for universal elections. The Federal Government committed in May at the London Conference that it is dedicated to develop an Electoral Law by the end of 2018, while options for models of representation are being considered, are to be presented at the next High-Level Partnership Forum later this year. The Joint Programme therefore provided capacity development assistance to MOIFAR's conceptual planning to take the lead in the development of the new Electoral Law for universal elections. Through deployment of national advisors in the Ministry, the Joint Programme for Electoral Support assisted MOIFAR with the development of an Electoral Working Group to revitalize the coordination in drafting electoral legislation for universal elections. The idea is to ensure that the planning process takes into account the various stages and processes crucial in law-making, including identifying key resource persons and mapping of institutions, groupings of civil society, youth, women to contribute to the process and broadening the scope of participation.

In this respect, supported by UN Electoral Support Joint Programme, MOIFAR convened on 7th May an information sharing and outreach workshop on the drafting process of the Electoral Law with national key stakeholders from the Federal Government, State actors and the NIEC. The session was also streamed live by TV channels to the wider public. On 12 June, MOIFAR organized a consultative round-table with high-level national and sub-national actors on the drafting process. More than 50 participants joined the round-table, of note were participants from the FGS, Federal Member States (FMSs), civil society organizations (CSOs), academia and political association.

Output 3: Legal framework for elections and referendum developed

The legal framework for elections comprises a wide range of legislative initiatives and reviews that have to be undertaken and completed in the upcoming years: most notably the development of an Electoral Law (see above), yet also the review of the Constitution as well as the development of the Citizens Law include aspects that are significant for the conduct of the elections. In addition, the NIEC, assisted by the Joint Programme, has been outlining comments for technical amendments to the Political Parties Law that was approved in 2016. The Political Parties Law foresees a registration role for the NIEC. The NIEC has also provided comments on the drafted By-Elections Law, which currently has been passed by the House of The People.

To facilitate research that will inform the development of a draft Electoral Law, the Joint Programme supported the compilation of a “Compendium of Electoral Legislation of Somalia (1953-1969)” comprising 12 laws in English, including 6 translated from Italian into English and Somali.

Output 4: Increased public and stakeholder understanding of electoral processes and electoral legal framework through civic education

As the last multi-party elections in Somalia were held in 1969, many Somalis have limited experience of universal multi-party elections, which makes it even more important to increase public and stakeholder understanding of electoral processes and electoral legal framework. As many electoral terminologies are unknown in Somali language, the establishment of a consistent and harmonized electoral vocabulary is essential to achieve better public and stakeholder understanding of electoral processes. In this respect, the Joint Programme has been supporting the NIEC and MOIFAR with the development of a lexicon of electoral terminology in Somali language, building on the existing UNDP Arabic-English-French lexicon of electoral terms. After public consultations and input provided by experts in 2016, the lexicon has been finalized and is being printed for wider distribution. A public launch of the electoral lexicon is foreseen for next quarter.

Output 5: Support to the ‘2016 electoral process’

In the beginning of 2017, the Joint Programme for Electoral Support concluded its support to the ‘2016 indirect federal electoral process’. In the second quarter of the year, the Joint Programme assisted a handful of key members of the FIEIT with the logistical and financial wrap-up of the process. Retrieval of assets used during the clan-based elections for the House of the People was successful. Custodian of electoral assets has been handed over to the UN, while some of the locally procured non-electoral assets, such as plastic chairs and tables have been handed over to local administrative bodies where the elections took place.

SOMALIA UN MPTF

Other Key Achievements

Challenges (incl: Delays or Deviations) and Lessons Learnt:

With the election of a new Federal Parliament in late 2016 and early 2017, the scope of the UN electoral support programme is currently under revision, focusing on the new electoral cycle and assisting Somalia with the preparation of its first universal elections since 1969. The transition from a clan-based system (as in 2016) to 'one person, one vote' elections poses big challenges for the country with many uncertainties at this stage.

Those challenges, from security to a wide range electoral-related questions that need to be addressed in e.g. the constitutional review and other processes are neither per se within control of the Electoral Support Programme, nor the direct electoral counterparts such as NIEC and MOFIAR. Therefore, an inclusive politics strategy for the next four year is needed to overarch questions that are linked to the constitutional review, electoral systems, state building, and rule of law. Electoral security, including access to all areas, will also be a prominent critical factor in the road path for universal 'one person, one vote' elections.

Informed by the NAM, the UN Electoral Support Joint Programme is working on a revised project document which will be in line with the new Strategic Plan of the NIEC. In addition, by supporting MOFIAR's Electoral Law Working Group, the UN Electoral Support Programme supports assists the Federal Government of Somalia with the development a crucial Electoral Law.

From the perspective of the UN Electoral Support Joint Programme, the revised programme document will envisage a multiple-year horizon eying towards universal elections. Yet, it is intended to take stock by the end of 2018 to measure progress and revise activities if required. In the third quarter of 2017, profound feedback and support will be solicited from counter partners and donors on the revised Programme Document.

Peacebuilding impact

Catalytic effects

Gender

The revision of the Programme Document that is currently being discussed, takes into account measures and strategies and measures to increase women's participation in electoral processes in Somalia. Additionally, the latest Letter of Agreement with the NIEC envisages the recruitment of a gender advisor in cooperation with UNDP's gender equality and women's empowerment Project (GEWE).

Although the 30% goal of minimum number of women in the new Parliament was not attained when it was inaugurated early this year, and some clans did not respect the rule of reserving every third seat for contestation by women only, the process resulted in a representation of almost 25% in the new Federal Parliament. This is significantly higher than the 2012 outcome of 14% and marks a major victory for Somali women, which will hopefully also serve as a stepping stone to bring about positive changes in other areas to advance women's political equality and empowerment. The 2016 electoral process established a new norm for women's inclusion, increased representation and participation at all stages of the process, including in all implementing bodies (FIEIT, SIEITs, IEDRM, electoral colleges). As an agreed principle of the electoral model, and reiterated by the NLF, at least 30% of seats in both houses of Parliament were to be reserved for women. The establishment of a Committee of Goodwill

Ambassadors was a good demonstration of the will of the federal government and the NLF to support women’s enhanced political representation. Hopefully a glass-ceiling has been broken and a new reality is being created for strengthening women’s role in decision-making and leadership, to inspire many more, particularly young women, to join politics and usher in a path to even greater representation and participation in the future ‘one person, one vote’ elections and beyond.

Human Rights

During the second quarter of 2017, the NIEC developed its Strategic Plan for the new electoral cycle and ‘one person, one vote elections’, with electoral principles derived from Somalia’s international and national obligations, including international electoral standards that are derived from article 21 of the UN Declaration of Human Rights and article 25 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights.

An important element in the path towards universal elections is ensuring inclusiveness and shifting away from the existing “4.5 power sharing formula” between the main clans. The tenth Parliament, inaugurated on 27 December 2016, comprises a gender balance of 24% women, a significant increase compared to the 14 per cent in the previous Parliament. Overall, over 50 per cent of the MPs are new. About 18 per cent of the elected MPs are under 35 years old.

Project activities are designed in a way that all human rights, gender considerations are taken into account. They also ensure that advocacy for women’s representation and partners are recommended to the government.

the Joint Programme provided each month its input to UNDP's Global Project for Electoral Cycle Support (GPECS). These monthly global Updates are shared to the EU as part of the EU-UNDP communications and visibility framework for electoral projects.

Banners with donor logos have been designed and used by the NIEC, in particular but not limited to when organizing workshops and posts on social media.

Looking ahead

The Board approved in June 2017 the extension of the current Joint Programme for Electoral Support till end of September 2017 as an interim phase in anticipation of a revision of the programme envisaging a longer-term electoral capacity development scope developing the foundations and preparing for future universal elections since 1969.

The UN Needs Assessment Mission that visited Somalia from 24 March until 2 April assessed the situation in Somalia and what electoral assistance the UN should offer. Its final report would provide in the third quarter of this year the parameters for the revised programme document in support of universal elections when the term of the new Government and Parliament will expire.

Given that the last universal elections in Somalia date from 1969, paramount work is needed to build the foundations for future 'one person, one vote' elections, ranging from developing the legal electoral framework, to creating political parties, defining electoral boundaries, registering voters, and electoral institutional capacity development. While state-formation was one of the key pillars of the new Somali nation in the past four years, including the creation of the different Federal Member States between 2012 and 2016, an inclusive politics strategy for the next four year will need to overarch questions that are linked to the constitutional review, electoral systems, state building, rule of law and security reform. Electoral security, including access to all areas, will be a prominent critical factor in the road path for universal 'one person, one vote' elections.

In the meantime, in the third quarter of 2017, the Joint Programme will continue its support to institutions and processes required to conduct future elections including: support of the NIEC Strategic Plan, supporting MOIFA with the concept of the new Electoral Law, assisting the NIEC with the concept how to regulate Political Parties, a voter registration feasibility study and the launch of a joint study with other international partners on the concept of national ID registration.

ANNEX 1. RISK MANAGEMENT

Type of Risk ⁴	Description of Risk	Mitigating Measures
Political / Strategic	There is a risk that the past 2016 electoral process drew away attention and resources from the preparations and capacity development required for universal “one person one vote” elections.	The Joint Programme, with donor agreement, had adopted a twin-track approach to support the 2016 electoral process while simultaneously supporting capacity development and preparations for universal elections and referendum in due course that includes support for capacity development of the NIEC and development of the legal framework. The renewed mandate of UNSOM in UNSCR 2358 underscores the UN’s support to Based on the recommendations of the NAM, a new Programme will be developed outlining the parameters of future UN support to universal elections; which will be discussed at length with government and donor partners. The different conceptual proposals for the new Programme will also provide different insights on plans of donor partners.
Security	Security conditions adversely impact the frequency with which UN advisers can work closely with government partners and other stakeholders.	UN to use alternative means such as videoconferencing. The Joint Programme is working with other actors, including agencies, programmes and projects that support the Somali Support to establishment of a security framework and an elections security task force.
Finance	Long-term sustainability of electoral processes in Somalia could become an issue if the national electoral management bodies (NIEC) does not receive sufficient funding through the government budget and is dependent on international funding. In case of a protracted and costly 2016 electoral process, donor funding for a profound electoral capacity development programme towards ‘one-person one-vote’ elections in 2020 might become an issue.	The Joint Programme works together with the NIEC, donor partners and other stakeholders to include an adequate budget for the NIEC in the Government’s annual budget. An electoral Needs Assessment Mission is conducted that discussed with national and international partners to define the needs for an electoral capacity development framework towards universal elections by 2020.
Social and Environmental Screening	Risk that the Project would have inequitable or discriminatory adverse impacts on affected populations, particularly people living in poverty or marginalized or excluded individuals or groups	The Project provided input to the UN Leadership to implement an inclusive electoral process in 2016. The NAM will look into inclusiveness of future universal elections. Within the guidance of the Government and federal institutions, project supports consultative forums with the public, and works with media to ensure adequate information sharing and transparency on the process.
	Risk that the Project would exclude any potentially affected stakeholders, in particular marginalized groups, from fully participating in decisions that may affect them	as above
